Kölsch is a traditional German beer style that originated in the Cologne area. However, being a product with a protected geographical indication, in order to be called Kölsch, the beer must be brewed within a radius of 50 km around Cologne. That's why we simply call it "Blonde". The beer you hold in your hand is fermented and matured naturally until it reaches the specific, light and refreshing taste.

Helles is a lager style from the Munich region, cold-fermented and featuring a German malt base that imparts an aroma of fresh bread crumb, along with hops that add a hint of lime; the result is a full-bodied, highly drinkable, and approachable beer — the perfect thirst-quencher for hot days.

For this Orange Wheat Ale we start from a base of German malt from barley and wheat, over which we add hops grown in the valleys of Washington state. After allowing the yeast enough time for a natural fermentation, the beer goes through a maturation process. At the end of the process a small quantity of 100% natural orange extract is added.

Is it a lot, or not enough? We have no idea. But one thing we know for sure: we are proud of the beers we brew at our place, in the GROUND ZERO craft beer studio. And we want to make Romanians drink really good beer. That is our mission. Deranj IPA is brewed for you, those who are always looking for the perfect balance between malt and hops.

Ground Zero is Romania's first urban craft brewery.

With a permanent lineup of 4 exceptional beers, the story behind the Deranj brand — created by Ground Zero — represents a strategic move to democratize craft beer in Romania.

While Ground Zero launched as a radical, rebellious pioneer of complex craft beers (IPAs & Xperimentale), Deranj was conceived as a bridge between craft enthusiasts and the average consumer.

The name "Deranj" (meaning "disruption" or "stirring things up") preserves the brewery's nonconformist attitude—the idea of shaking up the market status quo and challenging boring recipes, yet doing so in a way that is far more accessible, fresh, and easy-drinking.

GROUND ZERO MISSION / UNTYING MINDS!

We want to create a small, independent, yet very cool craft beer. A beer that challenges your comfort zone and unties your mind. We provide people with the means through which we discover ourselves, encouraging them in turn to discover (themselves).
